

Democracy: Is the system going to survive in Pakistan?

Outline

1- Introduction

Thesis statement: Democratic system is going to survive in Pakistan. But, another school of thought believes otherwise, however, the given evidences are not substantive. Therefore, it is beyond any doubt that democratic system is still going to survive in Pakistan.

2- An overview of the democratic form of the government

3- Democratic system is going to survive in Pakistan

- a) Free and fair election process within the time advected democracy
- b) Protection of humanity under the constitution
- c) Parity in acquisition of education strengthen democracy
- d) Equal rule of law for all individuals in Pakistan
- e) Co-operation between the centre and provinces supports democracy

4- Democracy system is not going to survive in Pakistan

- a) Delayed election process threatens democracy
- b) Massive blasphemy attacks promotes inhumane practices

- c) Unequal access to education highlights weakness of democracy
- d) The rich and powerful have often escaped of law
- e) Weak co-operation between the centre and provinces poses threat to democracy

5- Democratic system is still going to survive in Pakistan

- a) Upcoming election is a symbol of democratic system
- b) State's response against mob adds oxygen to democratic system
- c) Constitutional protection of fundamental rights promotes democracy
- d) The supreme judiciary is still protecting rule of law
- e) Consensus between the centre and provinces can not be separated

6- Conclusion

Attention Grabber:

"Undeniably, democracy is the best form of the government." (Taqeer Hussain, A Pakistani journalist, 2023).

Pakistan is a democratic system, no doubt, this democratic system is still going to survive in Pakistan.

START FORM HERE

Free and fair election process within the time
advocates democracy

Undoubtedly, Democratic system in Pakistan is going to survive, which reflects in free and fair election process within the time. In Pakistan, free and fair election process on the accurate time strengthen democratic government. Every five years' tenure has promoted by transparent election throughout the country. "Elections of 2002, 2008, and 2013 highlights successful power transfer from one government to another government, thereby shaping democratic system." (The News, 2023). This series as a clear demonstration that free and fair election process within the time advocates democratic system of Pakistan.