

Short Essay:

Patriarchy not only cost women but also men.

OUTLINE

1) Introduction

2) What is Patriarchy?

3) Effects on women:

A) Treatment like a slave

B) Usurping the right of inheritance

C) Lower importance on health and education

D) Looming presence of glass-ceiling

4) How does it cost men also?

A) Stop men from expressing their feelings

B) Ban on healthy relationship with family

C) Deliberious effects on norms and behavior

D) Curb on the individuality of dependent men

E) Dictatorship of powerful men usurps all resources.

F) Exploitation of less powerful men

G) Equal impacts on both gender by racial differences

H) Absence of love and care to the patriarch at his last stage of life

5) Steps to mitigate this cost.

A) Discouragement of patriarchy

B) Preaching equality and tolerance

C) Ensuring of presence and implementation of laws

6) Conclusion

ESSAY:

Patriarchy is like a pandemic, which affects everyone with a ranging extent. On one hand, where its effects on the lives of women are highlighted, it is also the need of hour to discuss its effects on the lives of men. Patriarchy came into highlight due to the feminism, as it puts deleterious effects on the lives of women by treating them like slaves with no rights given. However, the range of effects on men is also long. First, it is a hurdle in the expression of feeling because patriarchy teaches to behave in a specific manner. Second, it also provides hurdles in leading a life with required intimacy with the family members. Moreover, patriarchy also teaches the authority of powerful and eldest member, so all the economic resources are concentrated in a single entity. This leads to the exploitation of less powerful men of the society. Racial differences under the patronage of patriarchy put extreme effects on both genders simultaneously. Last, but not the least effect on men is the miserable condition of patriarch also, when he becomes weak at his last stage of life. Although, it is a huge issue, but it can be mitigated by discouraging the patriarchy and preaching the equality and tolerance. Therefore, one can say that patriarchy costs both men and women. The effects on the lives of men are not less dangerous. However, it can be neutralized by taking the right steps.

The term 'patriarchy' has its essence in the subject of political science. Many political philosophers, including the renowned first teacher, Aristotle also believed in the "Theory of Patriarchy" as the start of state. Patriarchy is the set of norms and values, in which the head of family or tribe is given with the unprecedented authority on the rest of members. The head controls all the administrative and economic resources and everything happens as per his commands and desires. In the 20th century, patriarchy came into severe criticism by the feminist school of thought, due to the continuous exploitation of women. Therefore, patriarchy makes itself relevant to discuss.

As one can realise from the above stated effects of patriarchy on women's lives, it also costs the men through different ways.

Last, but not the least cost of patriarchy discussed here is quite interesting as it is stated that patriarchy eventually leads the patriarch to lead a miserable life at the last stage of life, when he becomes weak and loses authority. As patriarchy makes its sustenance through authority and power instead of love and association, so the dependents of patriarchy have no emotional attachments towards the powerful patriarch of past. It is also evident from the words of renowned literary person Bano Qudsia, who in her book told that male lions spend their last stage of life in complete seclusion due to their distance throughout the life. Hence, one can say that patriarchy can eventually cost the patriarchy.

Conclusively, one can say that patriarchy costs both men and women through different ways. The effects on the life of women is highly discussed but the effects on the life of men are also dangerous. It stops the men of patriarchal society to lead a healthy and happy life full of joy and intimacy. That is why there is a sheer need to spread the lessons of equality and tolerance through different mediums in the society. Strong laws can only neutralize the dangerous tosh of patriarchy, so the humanity can lead a life full of prosperity. Therefore, the need of strict national action along with global collaboration rises more than before, so the costs of patriarchy can be minimized.