

Assignment Abid Ali-

Topic: True meaning of international law

Likewise, municipal law, which is concerned with rules and regulations established to govern public, states are governed by international law. The difference in their titles doesn't change its nature. International law works without considering social consensus. It operates with central authority which imposes sanction upon states. This authority is opposed by lawyers claiming that states are sovereign and are not bound to any of the sanctions. Since it is based upon such a tough condition of imposing sanction. Thus its importance is ambiguous. For some people, it's a sort of pretence. However, others believe that if it is practiced in its true sense, it would ensure peace in the world. Moreover, both of these views failed to explain its true essence. Actually, it seeks to balance between state's sovereignty and international order. It accepts state's sovereignty with some limitations.
