A CRITICAL EVALUATION OF THE CONGRESS MINISTRIES OF 1937

I) Election of 1937 and its results:

As mandated by the Government of India Act 1935, provincial elections were held in 1937 between the Indian National Congress and the All India Muslim League. The result of the election were shocking for the India Muslims as they could not get meritorious support from the voters. Contrarily, the Congress achieved a big victory and managed to get a clear majority in five provinces, i.e. Madhya Pradesh, Bihar, Orissa, United Provinces, and Central Provinces.

The Coalition government was formed in Bombay, Bengal, and NWFP. After winning the elections, Congress adopted a dictatorial attitude, and they started behaving in a dictatorial manner. They refused to form a Coalition government with the Muslim League by putting terms and conditions almost impossible to meet for the Muslim League.
