Body Paragraphs

Topic: Need to Improve Education Quality

There is a dire need to bring reforms in Pakistan's education sector as it is unable to provide quality education to students. The 43mn students enrolled in schools are not getting education as per international standards. The Prime minister of Pakistan has declared "Education Emergency" recently, to enroll all 26.2mn out-of-school children. But the government has not paid attention to the poor education quality. The reasons behind poor quality education may include outdated learning methods, insufficient teacher's training, lack of teaching materials, and overcrowded class rooms. "Education is preeminently a matter of quality, not amount," this saying of Henry Ford emphasizes the importance of quality education. Hence, it is the need of the hour to take

Topic: Energy Crisis Hampers Pakistan's Economic Growth

There are many reasons behind poor economic growth in Pakistan, chief among them is energy crisis. Frequent power outages and high electricity bills are manifestations of severe crisis. It impacts the economy in many ways, but industrial sector is the major victim of it. Due to load-shedding and expensive electricity, the industrial production reduces and cost of production increases simultaneously. Even it can lead to deindustrialization in the worst scenario. Deindustrialization, in turn, results in massive unemployment and trade deficit. It is evident from the fact that almost 200 industries have been closed and 400,000 employees

Topic: Empowering Female with Financial Independence

Women empowerment <sup>significantly</sup> lies in the financial independence which can be achieved by enabling them to earn money on their own.

In Pakistan, females lag behind in getting economic opportunities owing to prevailed gender discrimination. As women constitute approximately 51% population of the country, it is necessary to provide this large chunk of population with economic opportunities. This can be done by providing them education, giving their right of inheritance, teaching them earning skills, and involving them in family's business or at least in the budgeting process of home. A financially independent woman is supposed to live a successful life. Moreover, she can contribute to the nation's prosperity. "Teach her about how money really works and she can change the world," rightly remarked by Linda Taylor. Hence, a woman empowered with earning skills can bring a significant changes t in her own life and the society.
