Pone

A hungry lion slipped out of the forest into a banyan tree one evening. When he saw a plump donkey, his mouth began to water but just as he was ready to jump on the donkey, a rooster crowed. He was frightened and so turned away into the forest again. "Hey! Look at the cowardly lion!" the donkey brayed to the rooster. "I am going to chase him!" And the donkey ran after the lion. "Wait!" the rooster shouted. "You don't know ^{that?} But it was too late. The lion had come and killed the donkey. "Ah! my poor stupid friend," the rooster said, as he watched the lion eating the donkey. "The lion wasn't afraid of you but of my crowing."

Topic: Abandoning the Threat of Population Explosion.

The major concern of contemporary sociologists are the increasing risk of population on livelihoods. This worrisome situation is almost neglected by the state and its policymakers. Importantly, the state should regulate the quantity and quality of population, otherwise, ~~the~~ to the increasing birth rate would directly impact the existing livelihoods of the citizens. Moreover, the unequal distribution of resources may exacerbate the criminal acts. Though the situation is dire, ~~the~~ politicians, economists and Republicans are neglecting this issue for their personal benefits. For Instance, Politicians are desperate to get more votes which is directly dependent on more people. They are manipulating religion by claiming the natural reproductive rights. Thus, spreading extremist ideologies based on their immoral ideas.
