The Essay

Bill Gates said that " If you are born poor it's not your mistake, but if you die poor it is your mistake." In search of better living conditions, better standard of living, in search of better growth opportunity people move on from one place to another. Keeping in view the current situation of our country there are several causes related to brain drain like Economic, social, political and professional factor. If these causes are not being attention to it will have some serious consequences as a result young capital will move. Pakistan as a developing country needs to pay serious attention and improve the economic, social political and professional situation of the country. Take serious measures for development in order to reduce the brain drain percentage. If serious measures are not taken the country will face a major setback.

Grip on grammar is fine but Ur bill gates quotation does not have apparent and logic connection
