

COMPREHENSION EXERCISE 4

Q: Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow.

In universities in the West a large part of teacher's time is spent on tutorial work. By tutorial, we mean a regular weekly meeting of a teacher and a small group of students. A tutorial is not an occasion for a lecture by a teacher; nor is it an informal conversation piece. It is, in fact, an opportunity for a teacher to get to know his students. It is further a means to discover their potential abilities, stimulate them by discussion, test their responses to what they have read, and to give them individual advice on their studies. A tutorial should help a student to clarify his mind by the exchange of ideas, and should send him back to his books with a new awareness and a new interest. It should encourage him to think for himself and give him practice in formulating and expressing opinions. The usual form is that the students read original essays in turn and these are discussed, analysed and evaluated by the group as a whole under the guidance of the teacher. A further advantage of the tutorial is that it enables the teacher to become intimately acquainted with his students, both as individuals and as scholars.

Questions:

1. What does the writer mean by a tutorial?
2. Why do the teachers spend a large part of their time on tutorial work?
3. What is the form of a tutorial?
4. What do the students gain by tutorial work?

Ans (1)

A tutorial, by a writer means that a regular weekly meeting of a teacher with a small group of students. It is a formal conversation which provides an opportunity to the teacher to get to know ~~about~~ his students.

Ans (2)

In universities in the west a teacher spend a large part of time on tutorial work. Because the tutorial work is essential to discover the potential abilities of students. Furthermore, in tutorial work a student gets individual advice on studies by discussing the subject with the teacher.

Ans (3)

A tutorial has two forms. One is usual <sup>in</sup> which the students read original essays in turn and these are discussed, analysed and evaluated by the group as a whole under the guidance of the teacher. Second is unusual or formal conversation in which the teachers gets an opportunity to come to know about his students.

Ans (4)

A tutorial work provides many advantages to the students. First, it provides an opportunity to the students to discuss and get advice on studies from the teacher. Moreover, it helps a student to clarify his mind by the exchange of ideas and to restrict his studies with new awareness and a new interest.