6) CONCLUSION

Everything in excess is poison, this phrase is enough to explain that over dependency of anything is harmful. Since ages, man has tried his best to evolve, and for that he has worked very hard on technology. From pyramid of Giza to present time scenarios, Man has been a big fan of technology and the continued advancement in science and technology proves this a bit more. In all this race to improve himself, Man forgot that he has gone too far on technology dependency. No doubt advancement has benefited people a lot, but at the same time it's overly dependency of technology has costed people equally well.
