Title: War: Courage, Health and Age Mattered

A general delve into the war, must have courageous; physically and morally. Courage always calm the mind even in a shaky situations later, A military writer also regard a very deep calm in the way, must lead to the grave blunders in the battlefield. Secondly, there must have a spiritive health that creat a spark in the body as wolf and Marborough had shown. According to the ancient Roman poet; age matters in lowland war. It depends; at what age general dangerous for the enemy. As a young man; Hannibal, Alexander, Napoleon, Wellington and others proved to be dangerous for an enemies while, Marlborough, Turenne, Roberts, and Foch had proved to be nightmare for the enemies above 40 to 70 years. It is unable to judge the mens-maturity and boldness in any age rather it depends upon; how the warrior mind absorb new ideas and shocks. However, ripper age always edge over younge men due to knowledge and experience. Sometime, we lead to loss a good young comander due to inexperience prematurely in the war.

Title: Essence of Poetry and Shakespeare

Poetry is: To convert matters largely known from hearsay and hearing into simplified and abstract form. Every poet extracts something new from it on the other side poet may also be affected by the events that he depicts in his poetry. The mass instruments and communication is the main source for their poetry. Every poet has his own version of interpretation or himself and others. This interpretation may be different from millions of others, although same information available to all. Fundamentally, Shakespeare was a political poet; He attempted to pay more attention to present situation than the past. There was a huge difference between his personality and subject selection. This disorder necessary in all art.
Sometime he delves into issues and forgot himself and sometime did something need not mean to others. This is two extremes of the poetry where poet live in.
