Topic : ① Cold : A Stimulus of Action

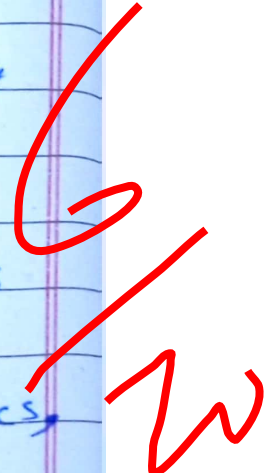

② Effect of temperature on human life

A difference in climatic condition calls for different activities and energies to be exerted by people living in that climate.

while extremely cold environment may numb all energies and act as insuperable obstacle, the intensely hot climate requires no energy as absence of any obstacles results in lack of motivation. But

● moderate climate has bracing effect on human life. ● It has fair hope of overcoming obstacles.

● In moderately cold climate as in tropic countries of northern ~~Europe~~, he struggles to survive. But it is quite different for man in tropics, as there is no need for him to make any effort as all ~~that~~ he needs can be provided by earth, he can live in comfort without doing anything. This ~~also~~ can also be seen in people during different seasons. In hot weather they become languid while in cold season, they are seen busy with mental and physical activities.
