

A visit to Cherokee

The passage describes the visit of author to Cherokee. The author wanted to visit a unique place instead of going any common tourist destination. Then his friend suggested him Cherokee and his tour and author agreed. They visited "Qualla Boundary" a country in Cherokee ^{rephrase} state which was a beautiful country surrounded by mountain. They also visit there a monuments shop and saw many things such as tomahawks they met a native named George who was fluent in English feathers and bonnets. They met a person there who knew English very well. His name was George. George told about their livelihood and means of earning in Cherokee. At last they had a tour to museum where they explored many historical things related to war and war. Sharing his experience of tour author told it was enjoyable and next time he would like to go other exotic place like this.

main idea is picked but precis is incomplete and incoherent point about bingo weekend was imp useless explanation in the content word count is missing and start sentence is incorrect need improvement in all aspects 4/20