

"Emerging Power and Emerged Power"

The rise of China has greatly impacted the world. Everyone believes that China is an emerging power and no one can stop it except the USA. The global South has welcomed China to invest in their countries because they believe that they would get many advantages and opportunities. On the other hand, the USA, which is an emerged power, would never leave a place for China to rule across the world. Therefore, the USA is trying to contain China strategically and economically. The actual plot is that the USA wants to remain in the status quo. Unfortunately, the USA has failed to stop China because China is becoming a major exporter of almost every country. But, whenever the USA gets a chance, she will hit China in every aspect because it is impossible that two global powers exist at the same time; it is a fact that an emerged power will try to counter emerging powers as the USA is doing with ~~the~~ China. The claims of the USA and China to bring peace and prosperity across the world seem to be useless. Useless, in the sense that at a particular point they will go to war, which would bring chaos to the world. In addition to this, China has invested in many countries through its projects such as BRI and CPEC. These are the major projects of China which are offering trade and connectivity across the global. Many of countries has welcomed China because they believe that it will bring prosperity in their countries too. China, itself claims that it is time to bring change in a world order and move towards win-win game where everyone would treat equally. Therefore, many countries has joined its project because these projects will enhance job opportunities in their countries.

For instance, China has invested in Pakistan in the form of CPEC which will enhance job opportunity by offering labour to locals of Pakistan which is ultimately helpful for the economy of Pakistan. Hence, Every country wants to work with China such as European Countries.

In the past, the USA was major trader for Europe but now China is major trader in the Europe which is a symbol of China's emerging power. China is challenging the status quo which means there would be war between two powerful states. In order to bring peace and prosperity, it is necessary for both countries to work together in the betterment of the world instead of personal interest. One small mistake can put down ~~the~~ the USA and China in a direct war.
