Outline ✓

* Introduction ✓

* Why it is important ✓

* Conclusion ✓

* Francis Bacon ~~the~~ father of essay once said "Reading maketh a full man" ✓

Happy is the man who makes ~~his~~ reading ~~his~~ habit. He has a life-long pleasure, when he has his beloved books. ✓

* A good reader ~~is~~ always a leader. When a wise man is free he does not spend ~~his~~ time in reading and learning rather than in other time wasting activities. ✓ Ruskin said "Kings' treasures" - treasuries filled, not with gold and silver and precious stones, but with riches much more valuable than these - knowledge, noble thoughts and high ideals. ✓

* An intellectual person in society is the one who have the words of great books. Whenever a man gets tired of ~~from~~ work load, he must study the books of his own choice that gives him pleasure and relaxes his mind.

* In reading man is not bound he can read whether it is fiction or non-fiction, but reading fiction is like eating nothing but cakes and sweets. As we need food to live in same way our mind needs reading to be fresh.

* In a nut shell, we can say that our friend or loved one may leave us but books are always waiting for us to open them and increase our knowledge.
