Title:

The life of the middle class: navigation from non-recognition to self-awareness

Middle class of 9th century was not considered the part of society. Even the professionals were only recognized by their status and birth <sup>privileges</sup>. They did not get welcomed by gentry in their parties and homes. Therefore, the middle class had made its own circle. However, the number of middle class increased, having profound impact on their lives. They ~~were~~ <sup>became</sup> more conscious about their values. Acknowledging the conditions of the poor, they set the standards of the ideal behaviour for the lower class. Differences of views observed between ideal and non-ideal behaviour. Drinking, atheism and non-traditional norms were considered non-respectable characteristic.
