Introductory Paragraph

Topic: Brain Drain

According to a report published by the UN, most of the world's ^{highly} high-skilled migrants live in only 20 countries of the world. (UN International Migration Report 2020). There are 195 countries in the world and only a small number of countries have the most skilled workforce. It is evident from this fact that why the developing and underdeveloped countries are still trapped in the vicious cycle of unending struggle. One of the major reasons of why these countries are lagging behind is the continuous migration of the talented workforce to the developed world. This phenomenon of migration of highly skilled/educated individuals from one country to another in search of better job opportunities or working conditions is known as Brain Drain. There are many causes of brain drain including Job insecurity, overpopulation and poor standards of living. As a result, a country faces a loss of Human Capital, Economic Disparity and Stagnant Growth.

The situation demands attention and reforms with elimination of its root causes, to stop its adverse impacts on the Country.
