• TOPIC: PRESENTATION TO POPULATION:-

The writer signifies the utmost need of population regulation in a state. He deigns upon the dilemma of how populations in the two classes of society will not only ^{affect} effect quantity but also ^{affect} quality. A rising number can, indeed lead to controlled births in educated class, but at the same time, an increase in number of people occupying underworld, ultimately notching down the quality. This is an ongoing phenomenon, turning into a storm, which least concerns the kingly of a society, who fear their weakening strength with limited procreation. This agenda requires a revolution, a movement with passion.
