

Precis 1994

Date: _____

Title :- The Paradigm Shift in Education

Education is dependent on society and social change. It is learned through past experiences of elders, from their setbacks and achievements. However, in future the learning will be same but their means would be changed. Education institutions will continue to teach different subjects and skills in future. Besides this, their main aim would be to inculcate ^{in students} the talent of intelligence to undergo any type of complication, effortlessly. Furthermore, ~~Dr~~ Diane Ravieh says that, ^{in past} due to political instability in Third world countries, their people used to migrate the First world ^{states.} ~~countries~~. Developed nations welcomed them but imposed their own ~~to~~ culture on newcomers. Presently, social sciences views it as cultural coercion so, state system of education is expected to refrain from cultural imposition.