The Destruction Caused by the Ambitious People

According to the writer, all the evil in this universe is committed not by the lazy ones, but by the people who are always busy in achieving more, without knowing what to achieve and do not prefer to spend leisure time. The writer condemn these ambitious people by holding them responsible for the real chaos in the universe. If these emperors, kings, arch dukes, statesman, generals, journalists and statesman would have spent their time lying on the hillside, enjoying the weather and tobacco, instead of planning wars, this world would be at greater peace. Same is suggested for the religious scholars and their followers who are busy in discussing women's dress code and the volume of dance bands, if they simply lay and stare at the night sky, it would be better for their mental health and this world.
