

Pakistan fails to eradicate the roots causes of child labor.

Child labor is the most severe concern which is persistently being ignored by the state, therefore it is escalating swiftly and casting a mere shadow over the integrity of this nation. You must know that children not aspire to do labor in their learning period, but they are being compelled by their parents to revert their goals and abide their orders. It does not mean that parents are not piteous and are vicious but the main culprit who is jeopardizing the parents by its devastating policies and administration is the state. Due to its disrupting system the nation is spanning their hazardous stage of life as there is famine condition in almost every middle class home therefore they are enduring numerous miseries and are now desperate. State has failed to stifle the inflation exacerbation that's why the parents are sending their children to meet the basic necessities of their home. The first and foremost step that state must take is it should not let its nation to combat with this conundrum alone, but it should fill the wounds of deprived people by supporting them in their hard phase of life. It can act a source of enlightenment for the deprived people if it helps them to tackle this situation. Another thing that always embraces me is the behavior shown by few parents to their children as when they come to know about their son's ability to do labor so they relax themselves and compel their children to earn money for their home, rather than urging and motivating their children to achieve education. This is a very severe concern which is proliferating in the underprivileged areas and is devastating the carriers of many children. So the state must organize career counseling programs to diminish this disrupting system. Child Labor is actually portraying the bad image of Pakistan in the world, therefore it is onus on the state to take every rigorous step to eradicate the root causes of child labor which is still prevailing in this country. The steps must be implemented with letter and spirit.
