On 11th August, 1947 addressing to Pakistan's first constitutional assembly Quaid-e-Azam Muhammad Ali Jinnah said: "If we want to make this great state of Pakistan happy and prosperous. We should wholly and solely concentrate on the well-being of the people, and especially of the masses and the poor." Pakistan's progress roadmap must prioritize economic diversification, political stability, social development, environmental sustainability, educational reforms and promoting equality in every field. By addressing these (five) key areas comprehensively and inclusively, Pakistan can unlock its full potential and build a brighter future for all its citizens.

Once Quaid-e-Azam said, "We must be prepared to face all difficulties and consequences, make all the sacrifices that may be required of us, to achieve the goal we have set in front of us."
