

History as a guiding light for future

In history of mankind, there is a strange kind of methodology when it comes to studying the relationship between past and present. Those who view past through utopian point without any critical outlook always ends up with failure. Meanwhile, on the other hand, the people who regards past as a guiding light and analyze it realistically always seems to win. Because these people tends to avoid the mistakes that were done by earlier ones and adopts the ways which contributed to their rise.

Myths and Realities of Poverty OR An unexplored side of Poverty

People always complain about poverty as a great source of social issue. But, according to author, poverty is not what it seems as poor man is living a more contentful life because his family members are free from all social insecurities and they are united on a single cause of supporting their family. In contrast, rich is always surrounded by luxuries of life. So, because of all these reasons poverty is a breeding ground of popular and dependable men, and to abolish poverty is like destroying a chance of leading mankind towards high ranks of civilization.
