

Hope from President's party in Balochistan

Many governments tried to resolve the problems of Balochistan, but they got very little success in doing so.

President Asif Ali Zardari visited Quetta to solve these problems, especially regarding precautionary law and order issues. He met top federal and provincial officials and discussed the solutions to these pertaining issues.

Like Zardari, other leaders also tried to do so but they could not get succeeded. Zardari also discussed the solutions to address the socio-economic issues. Like this, in past, a similar attempt was made by Zardari's party with initiating a scheme naming Aghaz-i-Haqooq-i-Balochistan. Although they tried their best but they could not deliver much to Balochistan.

people of Balochistan are hoping best from president's party and one can have hope that they would deliver this time to Balochistan.
