5) Conclusion

"Some women being empowered does not prove that the patriarchy is dead. It proves that some of us are lucky."

~ Roxane Gay
2014

According to Roxane, there are a few women in powerful positions and ranks, which is believed to be the demise of patriarchy.
She thinks women have not been given equality yet, but only some lucky women are employed in male positions to show the gender equality.

So, it means that gender equality is just a popular slogan. However, women's political, economic and social status is still poor and worsen.

Considering the political status of women, they have inadequate seats in parliament; they, in addition to it, are made fun of; and they get lack of support in presidential or parliamentary election.

In economic case, women are used as objects to succeed any business or work. Over and above, these women's story is less as compared to men in the same job. Some religious-minded people have imposed restriction on women for getting any job. The social status of women is also poor like others. For example, women are the main target of gender violence by husband or other family member. In developing countries, especially muslims, women have to get married at an early stage. Besides, men usually use stereotypes against women because of being physically and mentally weak. In the society, women's literacy rate is lower than men's, which causes them become lifetime dependent on male's financial support. As a result of it, women have to become unpaid labor at men's houses. Regarding these issues of women, there is an absolutely need for measures to empower

Women politically, economically and socially.
