Ever since the emergence of human civilization, people have relied on leaders to guide through thick and thin. ~~Initially every were the~~ ... of ... of simply clan's chief. The Greeks were first to ~~use~~ the concept (develop the concept of) of popular vote and laid the foundation of modern education democratic system. Therefore, though democracy is the best form of government for every nation, it becomes nothing but a hollow shell without the protection of human rights.

The term democracy is self defined by Abraham Lincon, who defines democracy as the "government of the people by the people for the people". work on transition of ideas please In words of Winston Churchill, the Prime Minister of United kingdom, "Democracy is the best form of government." ~~In this regard~~, it is pertinent to discuss the prominent role of lack of education in strengthening non-democratic forces. The ~~Article~~ 25-A of constitution of Pakistan ~~states~~ that education shall be a right for every ~~citizen but it is~~ ~~not given~~. Almost 24 million children are out of school in Pakistan which is the in the world. The illiterate masses can not make a right decision while choosing their leaders in a democratic system. These masses will choose under the influence of sectarianism, caste, or religion.

general elections. It means the leaders are chosen by only few. ~~It would be right~~ to say that it ~~is not people who~~ embezzelment of educational rights transform democracy into a hollow facade.

In the same manner, illiteracy leads to ~~rigging~~ polls. As the famous adage goes, "Ballot is more powerful than bullet," can not be applied to illiterate people. Ballot will be strong if people are educated and sensitized. Only educated masses who are aware of their rights can impede the democratic forces in election rigging. Moreover, uneducated masses are mostly seen selling their votes for few rupees and other preferences. These people are not empowered as their rights has been embezzled leading to a weak democracy. This prove that democracy is a hollow facade without human rights.

Moreover, people in Pakistan are not given the right of free speech. They are not affiliated fully to any party and can not say what they want. This denial of their human right of free speech lead to the deteriorating condition of democracy in Pakistan. Likewise, journalism which is considered as the fifth pillar of state is not free to share the truth. several departments are used to serve the news. This create a lacuna and spreads misinformation. Views are manipulated through propaganda and at time unpopular leaders are not selected by the people. The denial of right to free speech make democracy a puppet which leads to a dynastic government.

Similarly, the Article 8-28 in the constitution of Pakistan ensure basic human rights of every citizen. The constitutional articles are not enforced in letter and spirit. Most of the citizens are not even aware of their rights, which allow the rulers to rule as per their wish, thus denying every right. Therefore, the democratic form of government is worst for the unempowered masses. The masses can not distinguish between good or bad as they are not aware. They are not ask for their rights till the time they are not aware of their rights. This show that democracy is a hallow facade without human rights.

Likewise, democracies without protected human rights increase extremism and sectarianism. The _____ with subnet human right _____ use the abuse of extremism and sectarianism to gain their objectives. Democracy fall into a chaos due to extremism in all aspects of life. People _____ _____ as _____ _____ mainly for their _____. This generates a bug of _____ which leads to extremism and sectarianism. Hence, the unprotected human rights in democracy may have catastrophic impacts on nations.

The basic essence of democracy as discussed earlier in the welfare of people. Democracy is the government of the people, by the people and for the people. If the rights of people are not protected than the basic essence of government will be lost. For instance, Researchers derive the categories of democracy and its point by comparing it with other forms of government like dictatorship, monarchy etc with limited human rights, the democratic norms to measure the health of democracy. If democracy does not ensure human rights than it is not a democracy at all. Empowered people choose their leaders freely which is the jewel of democracy. So without human rights democracy is just a hollow facade, or it can be said that it is no democracy without human rights.

Lastly, democracy ensures the development of people. To make human empowered and social life is prosperous and peaceful in a democratic way of life with human rights. However, the absence of human rights make it an obstacle for development. This leads to lack of development which further deteriorates the living conditions and causes the problems discussed above. No development can take place in an unequal development society. Therefore democracy without proper human rights availability is nothing but a hollow facade.

The above paragraphs have explained the demerits of democracy without human rights. The following paragraphs will talk about recommendations to foster democracy by ensuring human rights.

deylopment of country and prosperity of people

this is quite imamture way to have transition of ideas

Youth sensitization is the first and foremost step for strengthening democracy. By empowering youth on their rights, they will use their energy for advocate for their rights. In the fight they will be more sensitized and empowered. The politically aware youth will choose competent leaders. Youth consist of almost 60% of total population and the population will remain young till 2020. By harnessing the potential of youth, democracy can prosper and will be palpable with protected human rights.

In democracy people are counted and on the basis of majority decisions are made. As mostly without the provision of human rights these masses remain unsensitized and make democracy a hollow farce. Therefore it is necessary to sensitize the masses if one wish for a true democratic state. Sensitization of masses is of utmost importance and for a nation to flourish it is important. Through sensitization, people became aware of their rights and when

~~_____ to embezzle their rights,~~ ~~____ them.~~ Hence it could be said that the hollow facade of democracy can be revived through the sensitization of masses.

Moreover, women ~~comprise~~ comprises of 48.8 percent, more than half of the total population of Pakistan. One can not think of development by ignoring the half of your potential. The participation of women is very low in political affairs of the country. The patriarchal mindset and religious bounds stops women from participating in politics. Recently in General election of 2024, a cleric from Gilgit Baltistan passed a verdict that, women ~~are~~ not canvass for women participants in election. By empowering women and ensuring their rights the flailing democracy can find footing in Pakistan.

Lastly, it can be stated that it is also pertinent to strengthen the socio-political dynamics of the country. It is commonly derived that those with a stable social and economic status tends to take more interest in politics. Therefore, if economic and social conditions which are deteriorating in Pakistan can be made better, would ensure stability and protection to human rights. They informed and socially stable people will stand up for democracy and will make it a suitable platform for ruling and transfer of power.

In conclusion, it is quite rationale that that democracy is a hollow faced, without human rights but the dream of a true democracy can be achieved if masses are sensitized, youth is mobilized, and socially women participate in political affairs of the country. In the words of Winston Churchill, "Democracy may not be perfect but I just don't know a better system." Though democracy is floating in Pakistan since its inception in 1947, it can be strenghened into a safe structure by implementing the democratic norms in a true spirit. Democracy has gone through the test of time and it has never left
