

Laziness: a blessing in disguise

Most of the world evils result from mis-directed actions of humans. According to author, the devil does not like to stay idle. Nor does it allow any of its subordinates to waste anytime. It is believed that world is messed up not because of laziness but the lack of its passive virtues. Although it possess enormous potential, but most of it is wasted. Majority would have benefitted if the major stakeholders had taken a nap in past. The world affairs would have been rather smooth if major players had kept themselves from ill-rhetoric and not indulged in unnecessary conflicts. It would have worked out today, if half of the European leaders spare some time for their mental recovery. Though religious conferences are held frequently, but, the participants instead of addressing major issues focus on petty ones. It would be better if leaders spare some time for mental rehabilitation.

Presentation of original idea is perfect

Good very good

Had sanity prevailed among major powers; the world would have been a much better place

TOTAL Words: 435

PRECIS ATTEMPT
145