

How far is Chinese support beneficial to the diplomatic and economic interests of Pakistan?

Outline:

1- Introduction:

Chinese support has been beneficial for Pakistan's diplomatic and economic interests. It has opened up new opportunities for growth and development, enhancing its standing in the international community.

2- How far is Chinese support beneficial to the diplomatic interests:

a) Empowering at multilateral forums

(combating terrorist organization, veto power ^{on} in Kashmir issue).

b) Strengthening bilateral relationships with other countries:

c) Forging strategic partnership to attract investors:

- (i) Public - private partnership
- (ii) Local farmers and international partners.
- (iii) Acquiring land on lease

d) Bolstering Pakistan's regional influence

- (i) Promoting peace and stability in Afghanistan

3- ^(Q3) How far is Chinese support beneficial to the economic interests:

• It's not economic field

(a) Investment in modernization of irrigation techniques:

- (i) Drip and splinter
- (ii) Seed develop programs
- (iii) Solarization of tube wells.

b) Strengthening defense angles:

- (i) Chengdu Aircraft Corporation with Pakistan Aeronautical Complex
- (ii) Electromagnetic spectrum
- (iii) LOMADS air defence
- (iv) Al-Khalid tank

c) Investment in natural minerals

- (i) Reko diq
- (ii) Marble reserves

d) Staggering infrastructural development and industrialization zones.

e) Enhancing trade and commerce.

f) Enhancing soft power and space technology

- (i) Pak Remote sensing satellite-1

Date: _____

Day: _____

4- Hurdles faced by Pakistan on the way to development.

- (i) Security concerns
- (ii) financial aspect
- (iii) Political instability
- (iv) Feudalism

5- Suggestions to make the most of Chinese support:

- (i) addressing security concerns
- (ii) ensure inclusive development
- (iii) ensuring transparency in projects
- (iv) engagement with local committees.

6- Conclusion.

Focus on the order of arguments
More significant arguments should be addressed first