In order to know about our hidden faults, it is necessary to be aware of our enemy's opinion about us. Our friends often applaud us, complacent to our heart. First of all, they don't consider our faults as faults, or consider our opinion so beloved that they hide them with the intention to not <sup>to</sup> make us sad, or deliberately ignore them. On the contrary, our enemy completely scrutinizes us and unveils our vices by searching every nook and cranny. Though, he exaggerates the matter out of enmity, but it always holds some truth. A friend always speaks loud of his friend's virtues and enemy of his vices. Therefore, we should be indebted to our enemy because he informs us about our misdeeds. Holding this view, our enemy proves to be better than our friend.
