

In the perception of common men, the laws and the liberty of man are contrary to each other. Seemingly, it is true. Every law imposes some restrictions on citizens. If the number of laws in a country increases, the restrictions may also increase. The liberty of man compromises with unnecessary laws. On the other hand, limited laws provide more liberty to general masses.

Translation : CSS 2016