

Past Papers Solution (CSS-2017)

Précis

Title:- Laziness is Better Than Misdirected Energies

The reason behind most of the evils in this world are the people who are busy in doing the work they do not know well. These people have done more harm to the world than those who <sup>not</sup> are doing anything at all. All the chaos around the world is not because of laziness but due to the misdirected energy of energetic people. If the important political figures in the past had been less active, then the world would have been a far better place. The active and energetic people in the past did a great damage to the world. Even at present, if most of the politicians stop considering laziness a vice and do nothing at all, it will be beneficial for this world. Similarly, if most of the religious leaders abandon their activities and take a long break, the world will be saved and they will get an opportunity to restore their mental health.

Total Words = 138