

Misinformation: An imminent threat to democracy

As misinformation affects the whole process of election. Despite of the fact, in different regions of the world half of the population have the opportunity to cast their votes.

Misinformation and anti-democratic agents malign the whole process of election not only by conventional method but also by modern way. By considering these threats, citizens should be aware through political awareness education and evidence based campaigns. It will not ensure the real democratic principles but will also ensure freedom of expression.

Total words: 218

After precis: 77