Title:

The Benefits of Green Spaces in Cities

Amidst a busy city life green spaces are source of peacefulness. Plants provide protection to biodiversity as well as environment. Parks do not only enhance the beauty of the cities but also increase social communication. In a chaotic city life contact with nature is crucial for self-analysis. The main task is to keep a balance between urban development and atmospheric preservation. Urban areas should be designed in such a way that guarantees human advancement as well as environmental safety.
