Nazir Hassan: A Cinematic Voice for Palestine

Indent the paragraph.

Nizar Hassan was born in Mashhad. He studied anthropology and later worked in cinema. He produced a film Independence, in which he expressed his thoughts about Israeli notion of independence wrathfully. As the news of Israel planning to annex more parts of Palestine spread, <sup>the</sup> writer received an email from Nazir Hassan as he wrote about his new film My Grandfather's Path. They say choose your enemies wisely as you might end up like them ~~from this they wanted to say that if you are triggered by their daily activities in Palestine you would soon become like them and forget about your actual dreams.~~ He is somehow saved from this trap through cinema, art, poetry, fiction and drama as it reminds him about the true meaning of politics. Nazir Hassan's new documentary is a work of art, as it has put Palestine in perspective and is a Palestinian's epic out to his homeland.
