

Q: "Khilafat Movement was an emotional Movement." Discuss

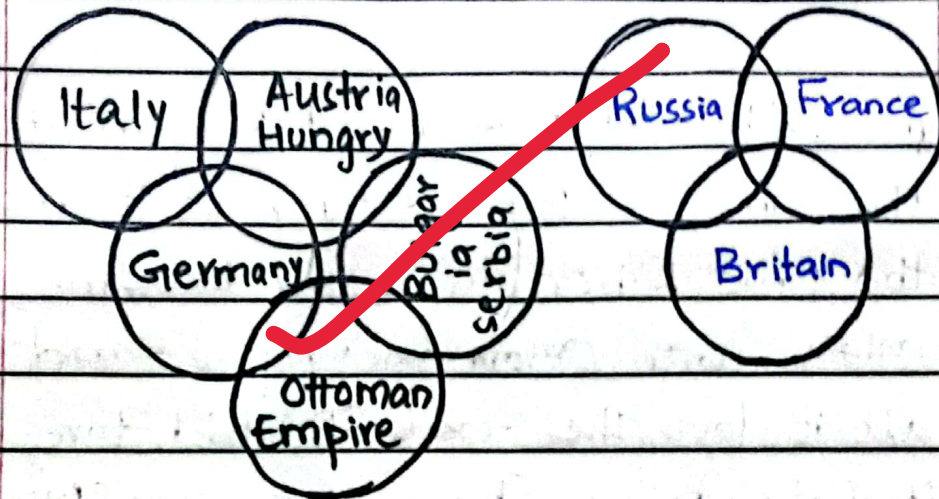

1. Introduction:

The Khilafat Movement began at the time of World War I. It was the time when Germany became allied with Ottoman Empire and as it lost the war, ^{the} British tore it into pieces. The religious affiliation of Muslims with the Islamic Khilafat history led to Khilafat Movement, which was criticized as being emotional and useless in the long run.

2. The Background of the Khilafat Movement:

In the World War I, Ottoman Empire allied with Germany. If Germany losses, Turkey or the Ottomans would also suffer as a result of it. On the other hand, Russia and Europe were the allies of Christians.

They were incited ~~to~~ ~~by~~ against Turks
in the Ottoman Empire.

Under these alliances, the countries jumped in the World War I. British assured Muslims of Turkish sovereignty.
Muslims also had ~~the~~ deep-rooted devotion with Caliphate; Muslim respect for Holy Institutes due to Islamic Khilafat history.

The results ~~of~~ World War I proved to be disastrous for Muslims, where Europe waged a Crusade against Turkey to dislodge it from Europe.
As a result, British tore the empire into pieces and a wave of anger followed.

Onset of Khilafat Movement:

As Indian Muslims were in favour of Turkey, they heavily grieved over its loss. Moreover, the British also set their promises ablaze and destroyed the place. Muslims were deeply afflicted with, due to the religious sentiment.

A Khilafat committee formed that was headed by A.K. Fazlul Haq, to seek cooperation from non-Muslims as well.

Massive protests were waged out as Muslims got infuriated against the British, as they started supporting the enemies of Islam.

by many Indians. Furthermore, the critics regard it as an 'emotional' move. This is because they are of the opinion that Muslims gained nothing except misery & due to this Muslims faced British agitation, refusal from Kabul and imprisonments. They ~~had to~~ were fighting for a country and a cause whose fate was unknown to them. In this case, they lost ties with their government and could not do anything when Kamal Atta Turk abolished Khilafat in Turkey.

Discuss this part in detail by giving subheadings

The counter-narrative regarding Khilafat struggle:

Muslims, on the other hand, considered Khilafat Movement to be a preamble to Pakistan Movement. This is because they got to understand through this that they ~~would~~ ^{could} not rely ^{on} British in any matter. * Also, the Turks regarded this movement and the struggle of Indian Muslims as a path towards national freedom. Ulema considered it supremacy of Islamic law. It aroused political consciousness and gave identity to Muslims, to break the chains of slavery.

5. Conclusion:

Khilafat Movement started with the propagation of religious affiliation of Muslims. It was torn apart by the British government at the end of World War I and it enraged Muslims. As a result Muslims had to face different hardships. But the critics view it under the lens of an emotional move, triggered for an unknown cause. The counter argument also makes this movement beneficial in Muslim struggle but it knelt no benefit to Muslims practically.
