In the ups and downs of life, such times come when man absolutely gets hopeless. He sees darkness everywhere and loses his capacity to face adverse circumstances. This is against the greatness of man. The progress of the world that has taken place is the result of man's knowledge and courage that has been bestowed upon him by God. Man should not lose his hope and face his failures gallantly One day, God will bestow him with success.

Translation:

In the ups and downs of life there comes the moment when man becomes hopeless. He sees darkness everywhere and his capacity to struggle diminishes. This is against the man's dignity. All the progress in the world is the result of man's ^{that} knowledge and courage, that Allah Almighty has given him. Man do not has to lose his courage but to face the downs with courage. One day, Allah Almighty will grant him success.

PASSAGE 3

When we survey our lives and efforts we soon observe that almost the whole of our actions and desires are bound up with the existence of other human beings. We notice that whole nature resembles that of the social animals. We eat food that others have produced, wear clothes that others have made, live in houses that others have built. The greater part of our knowledge and beliefs has been passed on to us by other people through the medium of a language which others have created. Without language and mental capacities, we would have been poor, indeed comparable to higher animals. We have, therefore, to admit that we owe our principal knowledge over the least to the fact of living in human society. The individual if left alone from birth would remain primitive and beast like in his thoughts and feelings to a degree that we can hardly imagine. The individual is what he is and has the significance that he has, not much in virtue of the individuality, but rather as a member of a great human community, which directs his material and spiritual existence from the cradle to grave. Precis: Title: Human: A social animal

Being social animals the work and lives of human beings are connected. Our daily needs are fulfilled with the contribution of others. Even the language, medium of knowledge, which distinguish us from animals is created by others. If left alone from birth, individual would remain uncivilized. The importance of individual lays in being a member of the society.
