A Word with God

Human being, having known the existence of divine power and its vast creation, feels a need to communicate with god. They find it crucial to know gods' wishes. In same way, In Ancient Greece, people did the same through divine signs and by interpreting the flight of birds, direction of fire and remains of animal sacrificed. It was the era where palmistry and the interpretation of dreams prevailed. However, in some instances, god directly communicated with his prophets and prophetess. It was called divine manna.

By such practices, Greeks anticipated future and oracles were located in a organised sanctuary. A part from it, Appollo and Delphi were the soothsayers, they conveyed the decision made by Zeus.

With that Dodan, the eldest, had the assistance of Zeus for the same.
