

Comprehension (CSS 2018)

Answer 1

This has come about in the sense that a major part of most of the people's lives is invested in taking care of the machines. These machines demand coal and ~~petrol~~ petrol for consumption. In addition, they require oil for washing and a certain temperature for functioning. If not provided with what they need, machines ~~would~~ would either stop working or will explode destroying all that surrounds them. Hence, machines need to be taken care of ~~in~~ ~~with~~ in a very attentive manner, so that they remain favourable for us.

Answer 2

The author says that the more leisure and more energy, resulting from the use of machines, has been a curse rather than blessing because we fail to utilize them effectively. ~~Most~~ Most of this increased leisure and energy is directed towards making more and improved versions of these machines.

Answer 3

Civilization means the absence of boundaries on thinking. It entails that everyone lives in a right manner, and no one is discriminated when it comes to provision of justice. I agree with the author's view. A civilization is characterized by emancipation of thought. It is where people live rightly, and everyone is given justice on equal footing.

Answer 4

"Making more beautiful things" means to introduce things that make our ~~world~~ civilization more liveable. This includes exploring the universe, eradicating the factors behind disputes between nations and finding out the solutions to end poverty. I would like to achieve the following beautiful things:

1. Gender parity
2. Economic equality

Since these are ~~the~~

3
some of the prevailing issues with a history of struggle, I would prioritize them in my research. As an aspiring researcher, these problems intrigue me. Hence, I would study these issues in depth so that I be able to propose solutions to them.

Answer 5

In order to prevent poverty in the world, a multi-pronged approach is required. It includes enhancing educational opportunities, providing technical and vocational training programs, and investing in social safety nets. Increasing educational accessibility would receive my most particular attention. This is because being equipped with adequate education enables a person to earn a decent living. It is the foundation upon which an individual's economic prospects rely. If deprived of education, a person can never secure formal employment that guarantees stable income. This keeps one trapped in vicious cycle of poverty.