

The attention we give to terrorism often seems disproportionate to its real importance. Terrorism incidents make superb copy for journalists, but kill and maim fewer people than road accidents. Nor is terrorism politically effective. Empires rise and fall according to the real determinants of politics — namely overwhelming force or strong popular support—not according to a bit of mayhem caused by isolated fanatics whom one would take seriously enough to vote for it. Indeed, the very variety of incidents that might be described as “terrorism” has been such as to lead critics to suggest that no single subject for investigation exists at all. Might we not regard terrorism as a kind of minor blotch on the skin of an industrial civilization whose very heart is filled with violent dreams and aspirations. Who would call in the dermatologist when the heart itself is sick? But popular opinion takes terrorism very serious<sup>ly</sup> indeed and popular opinion is probably right. For the significance of terrorism lies not only in the grotesque nastiness of terroristic outrages but also in the moral claims they imply. Terrorism is the most dramatic exemplification of the moral fault of blind willfulness. Terrorism is a solipsistic denial of the obligation of self-control we all must recognise when we live in civilized communities. Certainly the sovereign high road to misunderstanding terrorism is the pseudo scientific project of attempting to discover its causes. Terrorists themselves talk of the frustrations which have supposedly necessitated their actions but to transform these facile justifications into scientific hypotheses is to succumb to the terrorists own fantasies. To kill and maim people is a choice people make, and glib invocations of necessity are baseless. Other people living in the same situation see no such necessity at all. Hence there are no “causes” of terrorism, only decision<sup>so</sup> to terrorize. It is a moral phenomenon and only a moral discussion can be adequate to it.

Terrorism a Moral Phenomenon

Terrorism is given unfair attention by media and it is not politically effective and causes few deaths than road accidents. Destruction is caused by ~~moral~~ political factors not because of militant activities. According to popular opinion, the impact of Terrorism lies in its moral implications not only in causes. Terrorism is a denial of self-control. Efforts to explain terrorism through a false scientific theories of causes are misguided. Terrorism name their actions as result of frustration but to give this explanation a scientific reason is to undermine terrorists creativity. People kill other people by choice not due to frustration. So, terrorism is a moral phenomenon with no such causes and it should be tackled <sup>on</sup> morally grounds.

word count = 116 Total words = 267

Correct the following sentences

1. Jane is lazy, and Janet is active.
2. Robots signify artificial intelligence, therefore, they can never surpass human mind.
3. Robert's brother works hard, but he often stands first.
4. If you were honest, so I would trust you.
5. Since insects feed on garbage; therefore, human waste may be their breeding place.
6. Somebody knocked at the door yet I was reading a novel.
7. That that seat is mine, so you should sit somewhere else.
8. Noelle speaks gently and in a sweet manner.
9. Hitler was cruel, stubborn and he had strictness.
10. Roger was ready, and his friends weren't because everyone one was following his nose.
11. Go and to catch that butterfly.
12. Reading and to write are communicative skills.
13. Every winter night either my dog or my cats makes a noise.
14. West invented computer and East invented Trojan Horse Virus so both are inventors.
15. Both Asif and Hasnain like classical music, and both Khurram and Sumair hate it.
16. That he never completes his work in time his teacher often punishes him.
17. Since his father had been seeing him working since morning so, he brought a gift for his son.
18. Whether he will have to eat the tasteless dinner prepared by his wife, so he will have to empty his pocket again in some restaurant.
19. Both my elder brother, who is a doctor but my younger brother, who is a grave digger, are silently working against over population.

Sentence Correction

1. Jane is lazy but Janet is active
2. Robots signify artificial intelligence but they can never surpass human mind
3. Robert's brother works hard, therefore he often stands first
4. Somebody knocked at the door when I was reading a novel
5. That seat is mine so you should sit somewhere else
6. As insects feed on garbage so, human waste may be their breeding place.
7. Nolle speaks in a gentle and sweet manner.
8. Hitler was cruel, stubborn and strict.
9. Roger was ready but ~~to~~ his friends were not because everyone was following his nose.
10. Go to catch that butterfly / Go and catch that butterfly
11. Reading and writing are communicative skills
12. Every winter night either my ~~cat~~ dog or my cats make a noise
13. West invented Computer and East invented Trojan Horse Virus and both are inventors.
14. Arif and Harnain both like the classical music but both Khurram and Sumair hate it.
15. Because he never completes his work in time his Teacher often punishes him.
16. As his father had been seeing him working since morning so, he brought a gift for him.
17. As he will have to eat the tasteless dinner prepared by his wife, so he will have to empty his pocket again in some restaurant.

19. Both my elder brothers are doctors, but my younger brother, who is a grave digger, is silently working against overpopulation.

Playing a game regularly is better than to read books always.

To play a game regularly is better than to read books always.

A good reader must be hardworking and possess intelligence.

A good reader must be hardworking and intelligent.

I noticed Akbar was carrying a bag in his hand.

I noticed that Akbar was carrying a bag in his hand.

Having entered his house, the door was shut at once.

After having entered his house, the door was shut at once.

He thinks that his writing is better than his friend.

He thinks that his writing is better than that of his friend.

He is such a man who is liked by everyone.

He is a man, who is liked by everyone.

I sent a verbal message to my friend.

I sent an oral message to my friend.

He has visited as many historical places as one has or can visit.

He has visited as many historical places<sup>as</sup> one could visit or have.

Please Tell me where is your brother?

Please Tell me that, where is your brother?

Sajjad as well as Saleem were late.

Sajjad as well as Saleem was late.

He is the most cleverest boy in the class.

He is the most clever boy in the class.

I have met him last month.

I met him last month.

Your writing is inferior than me.

Your writing is inferior to me.

Nothing but novels please him.

Nothing but novels pleases him. make him please

The teacher gave the boy an advice which he refused.

The teacher gave an advice to the boy which he didn't accept.

He swore from God.

He swore to God.

Is your dress different than mine?

Is your dress different than that of mine?

He inquired whether I live in Karachi.

He asked whether I live in Karachi.

He spoke those words upon his face.

He spoke those words on his face.

They ran direct to their college

They ran directly to their college.

I shall not come here unless you will not call me.

I shall not come here unless you will call me.

They have been building a wall since three days.

They have been building a wall for three days.

He does not have some devotion to his studies.

He does not show any devotion to his studies.

(or)

He does not have any devotion <sup>for</sup> his studies