

Q: 2

Possibility towards Peace

I speak of peace because of new face of war. It makes no sense in an age, when the deadly poisons produced by a nuclear exchange would be carried by the wind, water, soil and seed to the far corners of the globe and to generations yet unborn. I realize that the pursuit of peace is not as dramatic as the pursuit of war, and frequently the words of the pursuer fall on deaf ears. Some say that it is useless to speak of world peace or world law or world disarmament, and that it will be useless until the leaders of those nations, perceived to be hostile by us, adopt a more enlightened attitude.

Q: 7.

Recently, a storm brewed at a book fair in Lahore. Instead of focusing on the treasures of literature and the joy of reading, a multitude of stalls sprang up, hawk-ing snacks and non-literary goods, overshadowing the fair's true purpose and leaving the essence of the event lost in the noise. Many participants expressed their disappointment and felt that the venue had largely transformed into a bustling food market, leaving little space and attention for books, authors and literary discussions. In this festival, the overwhelming emphasis on food stalls sparked a debate about whether the event was truly fulfilling or not.
