"In politics, nothing happens by accident. If it happens, you can bet it was planned that way. When you reach the end of your rope, tie a knot in it and hang on." The above famous quotation has written by Franklin D. Roosevelt. One of the famous president of United States of America. This quotation is about the importance of the politics which plays a crucial role for the growth and development of a nation in social, political, economical, technological and other disciplines. Politics is essential to maintain peace and prosperity within a country. It also helps to strengthen the diplomatic ties with other neighbouring states. In international scenario the developing countries are more powerful than compared to the under developed countries. The reason behind is the formation of a good politics. However, not economy but politics is key to success because political stability can achieve economic growth, rule of law

Can be strengthened with the help of good politicians. Crucial role of politics in strengthening the diplomatic ties, political stability led towards technological developments, promotion of long term policies and its practical implementation can ensure through politics. The emergence of insurgent groups will be addressed through political means, the empowerment of marginalized groups. On the contrary, critics argued that economy not politics is key to success, because economy helps in the efficient allocation of resources and a healthy economy boosts consumer confidence. Some steps to further strengthen the politics. Ensuring accountability and transparency, promoting nationalism. In this regard not economy but politics is key to success, critics point of views about economy as well as steps to further strengthen the politics.

Political stability can achieve economic growth. The political stability is essential for any nation to design state policies accordingly, which becomes helpful to maintain good economy. According to the different theories in international relations stated that: politics and economy go hand to hand. For example, the great depression 1929, political stability has provided more opportunities to the state and multi-national companies to increase foreign direct investment, which is ultimately helpful to the economic growth of a country. Like Macdonald, Pepsi, Coca Cola etc. Hence, economic prosperity can attain through good policies in a country.

Equally important, politics is also very important to ensure rule of law. It can be only better gathered with the help of good policies. Similarly, it provides assistance to all the citizens of the state to enjoy the equal rights, and survive their life according to their own ambitions. In rule of law no one is considered above the law.

According to this all the matters are equal in front of law none in poor or rich. "In this perspective the international Organization United Nations Charter 1949 has focused on human rights"

The international charter more emphasised the importance of rule of law. which is possible through politics. It has formed the structure of a country. Therefore not economy but firstly the politics is indispensable for the growth and development of a nation by maintaining rule of law.

Furthermore, politics not only plays indispensable role to ensure "rule of law" but also plays a significant role in strengthening the diplomatic ties with the neighbouring countries. For example, the formation of alliances, which is essential to further strengthened the diplomatic ties such as, SEATO, and CENTO. These are the non-governmental organization joined by Pakistan after its independence.

In order to maintain a good relation with United States (U.S.) & America. Similarly, Pakistan has also made relations with China, as well, to achieve their national interest through designing their foreign policy and maintain a friendly relations with neighbouring states. Hence, Politics shapes the diplomatic relations of a country not economy. But economy can be attain through good politics.

Additionally, politics role is important in all the domains. Which ultimately, helps to the prosperity of a nation. Notably, political stability led towards technological development. Technology is a tool or a medium through which states can achieve the advancement, and makes themselves prominent in the international world by the establishment of nuclear power like India and Pakistan, being a nuclear states. India become a nuclear state in 1974, while Pakistan become in 1990. Through these establishments it can be easily judged that the importance of technological development which is possible through good policies.

Similarly, "The Space exploration like NASA and Space X" both are the significant foreign companies working on technological development. It will emphasize that technology is essential for any nation in order to achieve growth and development.

Therefore, the technological development can be attainable through good policies.

In addition to, promotion of long-term policies and its practical implementation can ensure through policies. The long-term sustainable policies are very essential to the state in order to achieve their interest. It also helps the practical implementation of the policies in social, political, and security perspective. Similarly, one of the policy has been designed by the Pakistan in order to strengthen the national security that was "National Action Plan." (NAP). Equally importance, In international scenario, one of the most important long-term policy is "Paris agreement on climate change" which represents a collective and binding integration among the "states in order to counter the natural threats. So, the promotion of long-term policies are possible through policies. Therefore, policies is essential to ensure the long-term policies and its practical implementation.

Notably, the emergence of insurgent groups will be addressed through political means. Policies helps to counter the on going threats within a country or beyond the territories of a country. Policies also provide the assistance to conduct military operations against the insurgent groups.

For example, Pakistan was conducted operations in 2014 and 2017 "Operation Zarb-e-Azb and operation Red-w-Fasaid". The basic purpose of conducting these operations

Moreover, politics is helpful to empower marginalised groups. Those groups ~~are~~ are marginalized due to some factors the politics is a pathway by giving them a platform to advocate for their rights and interests.

Through political representation, these groups can influence legislation and policies that directly affect their life.

For example, social movements often push for changes that laws promote equality and justice such as civil rights, or anti-discrimination laws.

Hence, behind the empowerment of marginalized groups politics has play a crucial role. which will empower the masses to bring a bring transformation in a country.

Initial paragraph has discussed the politician is key to success. The proceeding paragraph will discuss the critic's views on economy.

The economy plays a crucial role in the efficient allocation of resources by utilizing mechanisms such as supply and demand to determine that resources are distributed.

In a market economy, prices act as signals to both producers and consumers.

Therefore, economy is key to success not politician.

Similarly, a healthy economy significantly boosts consumer confidence by creating a sense of stability and security. People see rising employment rates, increasing wages, and a thriving market, they feel more optimistic about their financial future.

This confidence encourages consumers to spend more, as they believe their jobs and incomes are secure. Ultimately, a robust economy fosters a positive feedback that can increase consumer confidence and economic growth. Hence, economy not politics is key to success.

Above paragraph has discussed about the critics views, and proceeding paragraph will discuss the steps to further strengthening the politics.

There are many practical and implementable recommendations to further strengthened the politics. One of them is ensuring accountability and transparency. The government should focus on these steps in order to maintain peace and prosperity in their country, because justice is not possible without accountability and transparency. Therefore, the essential and implementable step is to ensure accountability and transparency.

Notably, promoting nationalism is also one of the step to further strengthened the politics. It can Serve to unite a citizens around shared values, history, and cultural identity. By fostering a sense of pride in one's nation, nationalism can enhance social cohesion and encourage individuals to contribute positively to their communities. Therefore, promoting nationalism is the way to strengthen the politics.

To conclude, not economy but politics is a key to success, the critics point of view about economy as well as the steps to further strengthened the politics. It plays a indispensable role for the growth and development of a nation. The developing countries are strengthening their politics in order to get progress, and advancement in social, political, and technological fields. The politics is key to success not economy, because political stability
