The West always advocates for the fundamental rights of the human; are they really providing these rights? The answer is no as these are just the pseudo human rights of the West which are completely different on ground. The West talks about the right to life, peace and security at home, but on the other hand <sup>they are</sup> violating these basic rights in other places for their vested interests. It does not stop there, they are even restraining health care facilities in some regions while advocating for basic health facilities around the globe. Religious freedom is also a fundamental right of an individual, but the western countries are violating such basic right. Moreover, the

Western countries use to promote democracy and advocate for equal representation, but they have less women representation in their politics than the rest of the world.

They also use media to overshadow the violation of human rights and show soft image to the world. Besides, while advocating for sovereignty of the states, the western countries themselves breaches the states sovereignty by expanding illegal settlements.

Similarly, western nations advocate for education for all, but violating this fundamental right in other regions for their interests.

To sum up, the western countries are always advocating for basic human rights, but at the same time they are violating those rights around the world.

The West always advocates for the human rights. After the establishment of the United Nations (UN), western countries started to portray themselves as the savior of human rights. They use to take every violation of human rights, particularly in other side of the world, to the UN. On the other side, they are keep violating human rights, whether in their home or outside, under the shadow of maintaining peace in the world. The so-called saviors of human rights are playing a major role in killing of innocent people while defending themselves by portraying as peace-keepers.

The western countries are killing innocent people, in places other than their homes for ensuring peace in their countries. The western nations use to portray themselves as the saviors of human life and always advocates for peace. On the other hand, they are killing the innocents in vulnerable regions of the world under the illusion maintaining peace. The western military alliance, North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), invaded multiple states to erase terrorist groups, but, resulting in the killing of innocents. In Brevelton report, issued by a soldier of Australian Defence Forces (ADF), it has been claimed that ADF killed 39 innocent Afghan nationals just for their practice in Afghanistan. The ADF, which was in Afghanistan to maintain peace and advocates for human rights, was involved in severe war-crimes. Thus, it is evident that the so-called peace-keepers are involved in killing innocent civilians.

West always advocates for equality while promoting racism at their home. Most the countries in the west follow the democratic norms. Equality is one of the ~~most~~ fundamental norms of the democracy where every individual should be treated equally, irrespective of its gender, religion or caste. However, the western nations are failing to provide that basic right to people. Mesut Ozil, by birth a Turkish national and player for Germany, faced racism multiple times which lead him to leave Germany. The western people consider themselves superior than any other nationals, resulting in the rise of nationalism and racism within themselves. It reflects that on one hand west advocates for equality while on the other hand promotes racism.

West restrains health care facilities in some parts of the world while talking about the basic health facilities.

Health — care is the fundamental right of a human being. For this reason, the western countries launched multiple campaigns and established health organization to provide basic health facilities to people. On the flip side, they restrain the healthcare facilities in Gaza where hundreds of people are dying due to lack of access to basic health facilities. In addition to that, Israeli Defence Forces (IDF) attacked Al-Shifa Hospital in Gaza and restrained the medical treatment providing to innocent Gazans. The western countries not only restraining the basic healthcare facilities, but also defending their brutalities. Therefore, it is clear that right to live a healthy life is only a pseudo human right of the west.

West, while advocating for religious freedom in other regions, restricts the following of religious norms at home. Religious freedom is the fundamental right of an individual. No person or state has the authority to stop a person from practicing its religion. Western countries always use to talk about the religious rights of Jews and Christians in other parts of the world, but violating these rights at home. France, while portraying itself a secular state, abrogating the religious freedom of Muslims by banning veil in public places. It does not stopped there, France also banned wearing veil in Paris Olympics which was a global event. It shows the dual-face west and proved that religious freedom is also a pseudo human right of the west.

In a nutshell, west, while advocating for human rights, violates the basic rights whether at home or outside. The western countries are involve in killing of innocent un-armed persons while talking about right to life. Similarly, one hand they ~~are~~ portray themselves as the savior of human life, while on the other hand they restrains medical treatment in some regions. The so-called democracies of west <sup>also</sup> demands religious freedom in east, but they are not granting the one at their home. The western countries are also not providing basic <sup>gender</sup> rights to women. They try to hide their violations of human rights by utilizing media outlets. Moreover, they are expanding their illegal settlements while talking about the sovereignty of states. The western nations also promote extremism in other countries for their vested interests. They also fuel racism against the minorities. In short, the overall discussion indicates that there are only pseudo human rights of the West which needs the attention of the west to reconsider their policies toward human rights.
