Success and Failure

Of the same coin

Success and failure are two sides of one coin. Everybody in this world wants to be successful, but it is not easy to be successful. Success is not achieved by blinking of eyes. There is hard work and rigorous process through which one has to go. From religious point of view it is blessing of God. The fruits of success are so sweets everyone wants to eat. The one only can eat such fruits if he goes through such process.

U can exemplify your points too

On the contrary, the other side of coin is failure. Nobody likes it. It does not happen itself. It happens when one cannot achieve success. Failure is not achieved to those who did not try. Failure is achieved to those who tried for success. The sweet fruit of success is converted into bitterness when success is not achieved. No one wants to eat such bitter fruit even he/she goes through rigorous process of hard work.

Conclusively, success and failure are two opposite words, which goes through side by side. Everyone has to taste fruits of both words, even he/she does not want.
