Although there was a criminal justice system, juvenile were treated same as other ordinary criminal which forces to create another system which is based on juvenile justice system only.

Following are the points which highlights the need of why the juvenile justice system was introduced:

- In ancient times, children were treated same as adult criminal.

- If a child is committing any crime, it will lead to death penalty.

- Massachusetts colony passed a bill in 1646 which explains

"If any child commits a crime, these parents will be responsible for it and their parents will be put into death penalty."

- Hardships of juveniles were high because they were compared as adult criminals.

- In 19th C, people started realizing due to socio-economic changes.

- 1899, the US passed a bill that mentioned the separation of juvenile justice system from criminal justice system.

Following are the developments due to a bill passed by the US:

(i) Separation of Joint family from Joint to Nucleated:

The development emphasized the separation of nucleated family from joint family because children cannot get desired love in joint family. Thus, they commit crime. Therefore, it is necessary to separate the family so that ~~the~~ child can get proper love.

and affection from his parents.

According to Seigel:

"Children should be given love and affection. Thus, it is necessary that they live separately from joint family. And parents should not force their children to marry according to their choice."

(ii) Laws for Juvenile:

If there is a child who belongs from poor family, he will be put in the wealthier family where he can learn skills and art until the age of 18. In this, state can play positive role to ensure the safety of a child.

(iii) State as a Parent:

State should serve as a parent for those who are disable, fragile, and suffering from any disease.

(iv) Child saving Movement:

After the revolution, there was a child saving movement which focused on the separation of juvenile justice system from criminal and ensured the rights of a juvenile.

4. Role of a Police in the Juvenile Justice system of Pakistan (JJS)

Juvenile justice system of Pakistan is one of the important factors which is protected by police. Police plays an important role in ensuring JJS of Pakistan because it is considered as first step of defense. Thus, it helps juvenile to protect their identity, ban of handcuffs and to inform their parents if any juvenile commits crime.

(i) Identify the Juvenile:

According to Juvenile Justice system of Police act 2018, section 8, it depicts that police should identify the juvenile if he is under age or not on the basis of his other documents.

(ii) Ban on chains to juvenile

It is clearly indicated in the Police order that there should be no chains to juvenile if he is committing crime because chains cannot affect his cognitive approach.

(iii) Inform the Parents of Juvenile

Police can inform the parents of juvenile if he or she is committing crime. Because, it will be helpful for juvenile if his parents are aware of it and can arrange primitive measures.

(iv) Proceeding of courts should not revealed:

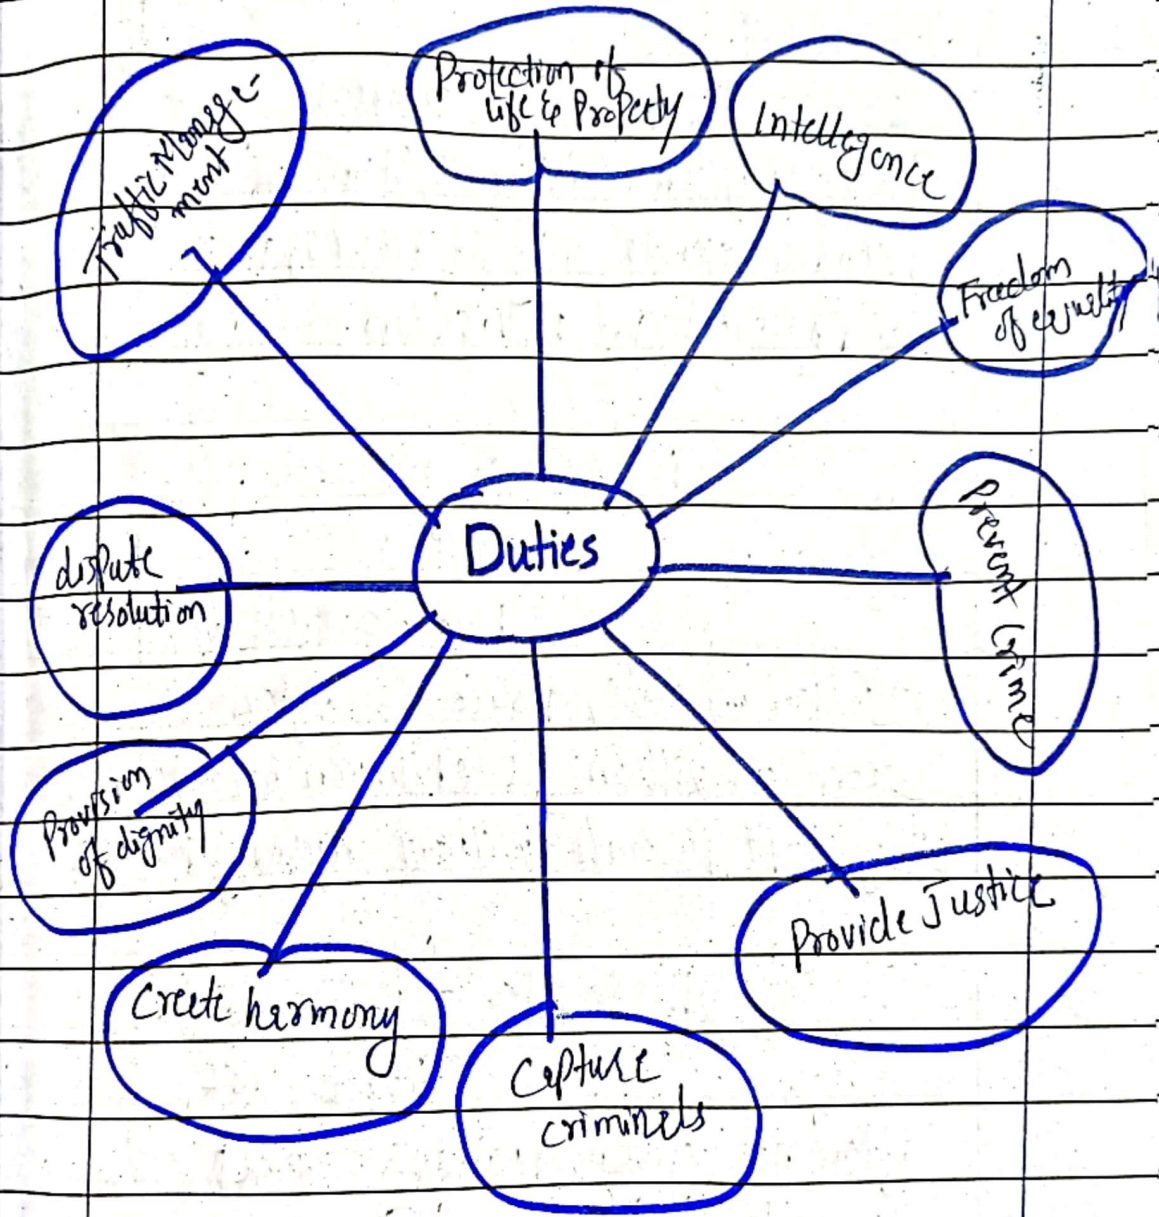

It is one of the important factors that police should not reveal the proceeding of courts because it might affect the mentality of a juvenile.

(v) Keeping juvenile under home observation:

Police should keep a juvenile under home observation rather than jails.

By doing this, juvenile can attain his sense by realizing his guilt.
