Passage.

Not all the rulers signed the Instrument of Accession at once. Afraid that the Socialist Congress Party would strip him of his amusements, flying, dancing girls and conjuring delights which he had only just begun to indulge since he had only recently succeeded his father to the throne, the young Maharajah of Jodhpur arranged a meeting with Jinnah. Jinnah was aware that both Hindu majority and geographical location meant that most of the Princely states would go to India, but he was gratified by the thought that he might be able to snatch one or two from under Patel's nose. He gave Jodhpur a blank sheet of paper. 'Write your conditions on that' he said and 'I'll sign it' elated, the Maharaja returned to his hotel to consider. It was an unfortunate move on his part, for V. P. Menon was there waiting for him. Menon's agents had alerted him to what Jodhpur was up to. He told the young ruler that his presence was requested urgently at viceroy's House, and reluctantly the young man accompanied him there. The urgent summons had been an excuse, and once they had arrived, Menon had to go on a frantic search for Viceroy, and tell him what had happened. Mountbatten responded immediately. He solemnly reminded Jodhpur that Jinnah could not guarantee any conditions he might make, and that accession to Pakistan would spell disaster for his state. At the same time, he assured him that accession to India would flout automatically mean end of his pleasure. Mountbatten left him alone with Menon to sign a provisional agreement.

Step-2 (Reorganization of the points of step-1)

Princely States: The Instrument of Accession

of princely states

Rulers did not sign the instrument of accession at once. A prince of Jodhpur state was afraid of losing <sup>his</sup> luxury <sup>life</sup> moments due to the instrument of accession. Jinnah also knew that numerous princely states would join India. Jinnah tried his best to achieve the instrument of accession from the prince of Jodhpur. Muhammad Ali Jinnah gave paper to the prince to write the conditions. The prince rejected that Jinnah would not guarantee the conditions. At the end, Jinnah also ascribed the prince joining India would be a threat to ~~his~~ the ~~pleasure~~ of prince's pleasure.
