Conditions of seeking Truth.

The writer in this passage explained the phenomenon of seeking truth in philosophy. But it is incomplete without fulfilling necessary conditions. Before undertaking this journey one must be able to distinguish between right and wrong. The truth seeker must detach himself from pleasure seeking worldly affairs because they cannot give ever-lasting joy. He must possess six treasures of life which are based on self-controlling principles. Moreover, he has to give up on his false ego for the sake of owning whole world.
