

Q: Define Human Heart?

Human heart is a muscular organ which are responsible for blood pumping in the body. Human heart is surrounded by mainly 3 layers pericardium, myocardium and Endocardium which provide support shape and protection to the heart.

In human heart there are four chambers which are responsible for pumping of blood through contraction and relaxation. It also consist 2 valve namely Tricuspid valve and bicuspid valve in between chambers which prevent backflow of blood.

Short answer. Discuss in more detail and by giving subheadings