

Language: The Pivotal Role in Life

The writer believes that if human beings are good doers and knowers, it is just because of language. Language is the tool that distinguishes between human beings and animals. Additionally, the intelligence of human beings are useless without language. Furthermore, it was the language that assisted in gathering and telecasting of information, facilitated religious expression, and gave a rise to human civilization.