

Poverty has myriads of causes in Pakistan. One of the main causes of poverty is illiteracy which is so common in Pakistan. This means lack of basic understanding of reading and writing abilities. This is more common among females. Illiteracy rate in Pakistan is forty three percent; therefore, twenty four percent people are living below the poverty line. Furthermore, poverty also emerges due to absence of job opportunities in both private and public sector and in such situation citizens are unable to get money to fulfill their basic needs. Poor economic growth is an other factor that leads a society toward poverty and this ultimately minimizes the earning potential of people. Therefore, poverty stems through illiteracy, absence of job opportunities and poor economic growth. In short, it can be stated that poverty has many reasons in Pakistan.

~Mohsin Ali~

Q → Precis:

Poverty has numerous causes in Pakistan. The foremost cause of poverty is illiteracy. Secondly, absence of job opportunity in every sector creates poverty. Lastly, poverty also caused by poor economic growth which reduce earning.

Title : Causes of Poverty in Pakistan
Passage count : 110
Precis count : 35

Remarks: