

This year, around four million people have the opportunity to cast their votes. However, the dark clouds of mis-information extensively looms on democratic bounchness. The efficacy of democracy comprised on evidence and informed populace. Moreover, there exist concerns of malactous acts pertaining misinformation, given the propotion of false information to gain self-interests, and undermine smoothness of electoral process. There are discontends pertaining influence on voters by different means such as propogand and deep-fakes. Along with this, there exist the chance of direct attack on electoral process. However, numerous tactics exist to curb out the malicious act. First, general education to sactify the messege by evidence. Secondly, this requires three steps resolved by professionals. Interpreting the seriousness of problem, Ractifying its falsness, assurance that mis-information hurts the fabrics of democracy.

Words = 115

Title: "Mis-leading of information: A threat to democracy"

DATE: ___/___/20___

Q4: "Correct any five of the following sentences"

(1) We accept their offer that something is better than nothing.

(2) Use one cup full and a half bowl of water.

(3) The bag was so heavy that I hardly lift.

(4) She advised me not to point my finger to anyone.

(5) ~~Neither of the two~~

(5) Neither of ~~the~~ two applicants had suitable qualification.

(6) Neither Shabab wants to study, nor he wants a job.