

Précis

Modern educational theorists wrongly prefer not to interfere with children over the prospects of enjoying their company. If one has a fondness for children, they will easily respond to him without complaining.

Children will not be thankful if one keeps an interest in them only for their future ^{expectations.} ~~expectations.~~

Interest in children should not be kept for any personal motive but for the sake of enjoying their company. Unluckily, teachers are overburdenized due to which they cannot maintain a natural liking for children. Teacher's contact with the children should not exceed two hours a day. Dealing with children, without strict discipline, is tiresome. This causes irritation despite various teachers' theories. Friendliness cannot be ensured with self-control only as it is above rules. Giving love is an education in itself.
